I was astonished when Denise accused me of being on drugs in front of the entire family while it was her that was using methamphetamines. I would guess she died due to drug abuse and her deceased brother, DOUG were doing those type things along with her husband and brother, Darren. I was the sister-in-law that thought she was my friend. She and the rest are nothing but liars and addicts, like the rest of that family. Each one was addicted to something, or many things. Anyone who knew one of them know this is the truth. Always up to SOMETHING and it was hardly EVER anything good.
